

Section

During the daytime, berth and section passengers are accommodated in comfortable sofa seats, especially suited for lounging or window gazing. Individual reading lights are provided and there is ample room for luggage and wraps. Completely equipped toilet and dressing rooms elsewhere in the car are always available.

Note: A "Section" is the space of both a lower and upper berth, but where one berth only will be prepared for night use. Where lower and upper berths within the confines of a section are purchased for separate use, the accommodations furnished will be as described and pictured under the heading "Upper Berth" and "Lower Berth."

Where a section for single occupancy is purchased the occupant has exclusive use of all the facilities in the section, including both seats, extra luggage space and extra pillows and blankets as desired. In the use of a section in nighttime service, as pictured here, both the upper and lower berth mattresses are placed on the lower berth to make for more restful sleep. The upper berth is closed to provide more head room and four clothes hangers are furnished.

Upper Berth

Lowest priced of all Pullman sleeping accommodations, the upper berth is a full-size comfortable bed equipped with a soft, sleep-inviting mattress. The bed is prepared with crisp linen, warm blankets and two fluffy pillows. Other conveniences include clothes hangers, a rack for toilet articles and under-clothing, individually controlled reading lights and a porter call bell. A safety ladder makes access and exit easy. Berth curtains assure complete privacy.

Lower Berth

The cushions of the daytime section seats drop down to form a base for the innerspring mattress of the lower berth. There's a shelf for toilet articles or an overnight case, hangers and a rack for clothing, heavy curtains to assure privacy and ample space for luggage.

ROOMETTE

- Sliding corridor door inside curtain may be locked.

Roomettes

The Roomette, designed for single occupancy, offers complete and private toilet facilities, ample luggage space, plenty of room for lounging and dressing, chilled drinking water and individual heat, light and air conditioning controls for your added comfort and enjoyment. The Roomette pictured on the right has the front edge of the folding type bed contoured at the lower end.

Day or night you are assured complete privacy if that should be desired. In addition to the lights for general illumination, there are also reading and mirror lights for your individual control.

The bed when lowered for night use is over six feet long. It has a sleep-inviting mattress and is pre-made with two pillows, crisp clean sheets and woolen blankets.

Compartments

Whichever type Pullman compartment you choose, you're always sure of generous living and lounging space! In the one to the left, the long deep-cushioned sofa and lounge chair will comfortably seat up to four for daytime travel. At night the sofa gives way to a sleep-inviting bed. An upper berth levels off above the window, at right angle to the sofa-bed.

In the compartment to the right the two beds are lengthwise to the car. The lower bed is of the fold-in-the-wall type, while the upper berth, directly above, lowers from the ceiling. Both beds feature restful mattresses, snow-white linens and soft warm blankets. Complete toilet and wash basin facilities are enclosed in a separate annex. Liberal space is available for the storing of luggage, wraps and other belongings.

You will be pleased with the comfortable furnishings and tasteful decorations of a Pullman compartment. Its exceptionally fine seating arrangement offers the ultimate in convenience.

If you're two or two plus a youngster, you will find the comfort and privacy of this compartment ideal for your travel needs. And, for added convenience, the sofa is always handy for day-time naps.

Other conveniences of this compartment include private toilet and washing facilities, individually controlled air conditioning, heat and lights.

Even at night with both beds made, there is plenty of elbow-room in the compartment. The ladder to the upper berth is firmly affixed and remains in position throughout the night.

Double Bedrooms

This popular accommodation has several variations. Each arrangement provides private sleeping and living space for two people. Each has individually controlled air conditioning, heat and light . . . private toilet facilities . . . clothes storage and luggage space . . . fresh chilled drinking water. Two soft, king-size beds, for comfortable sleeping at night, fold away to make a sitting room by day.

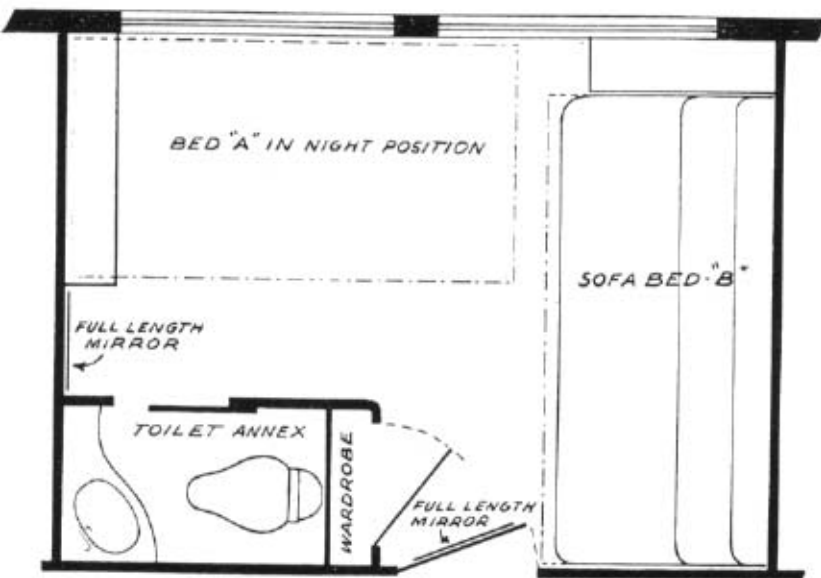

Most double bedrooms are constructed in pairs so that a partition between them may be opened to form one large room. The bedroom suite, as it is called, is particularly appealing to parents traveling with children, and is also favored by groups of businessmen. It may be used for business conferences or social activities, and then restored for use as two separate rooms at night if desired. Several other bedroom arrangements, similar to the typical ones shown here, are also available.

DRAWING ROOM

For 1, 2 or 3 Persons

Above sketch shows floor plan of latest type Drawing Room accommodating 1, 2 or 3 persons. Folding lower bed "A" is let down at night from wall at left. The sofa "B" becomes another lower bed. Upper bed is lowered from wall and is located directly above lower bed "B." Porter assists in positioning all beds.

Daytime Features

- Enclosed toilet annex with complete lavatory facilities.
- Two windows allow free, wide-angle vision.
- Long, comfortable sofa and two folding lounge chairs.
- Overhead luggage space keeps luggage out of the way.
- Enclosed wardrobe provides ample space for clothes.
- Convenient full-length mirrors.

Night-time Features
